Wm. Graham Laid to Rest With Military Honors

Last Post and Reveille Sounded Over Grave and Poppies Dropped on Coffin.

William Graham, war veteran and executive member of Coleman branch of the Canadian Legion, was accorded a soldier's funeral on Thursday, Feb. 14, when he was laid to rest in Coleman cemetery.

The funeral service at the house was conducted by Rev. Roy C. Taylor and was attended by the family and friends, together with pall-bearers from the Canadian Legion, while outside the house were gathered a large number of members of the Legion and miners association, to pay silent tribute to a departed comrade.

At the graveside the Legionnaires formed in a hollow square, and after the committal service Constable Foster, R.C.M.P., who served in the same unit overseas as deceased, sounded Last Post, followed after a pause by Reveille. Filing past the grave, the Legionnaires dropped poppies, emblematic of Plunders Fields, on the grave. Floral tributes from the family, relatives and local organizations covered the casket, which was also covered with the Union Jack. The pall-bearers were H. Hulbert, Robt. Parry, Peter Smith, Robert Lloyd, J. Hirst and Ernest Houghton.

League of Nations. "They say I've got no army; but why should I want one with them after?"

His Excellency, the Governor-General of Canada, challenged Canadian Boy Scout leaders to celebrate the coming visit to Canada this spring of the World Chief Scout, Lord Baden-Powell, by initiating a drive to increase the ranks of Canadian Scouts from 65,000 to 100,000, thus extending the benefits of Scouting to hundreds of Canadian communities now without an organized programme of any kind for their boys. The Scout movement as a whole accepted the challenge, but expansion demands

Special Train Will Take Scouts and Guides to Jamboree at Calgary Apr. 22

Tentative plans for transporting Boy Scouts and Girl Guides to Calgary for the jamboree on the occasion of the visit of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell, on Easter Monday, April 22, include the starting of a special train from Coleman between 9 and 9.30 a.m., arriving in Calgary approximately six hours later. Parents and friends may also take advantage of the excursion train, which will leave Calgary again late the same evening, but those who desire may stay over and return via ordinary train.

Beware The Danger Spots

The inauguration throughout Canada of new social services, and the extension of social services already existing, are policies to which it is now clear all political parties in Parliament are definitely committed. Since the beginning of the present century there has been a steady growth, not only in Canada but in all countries in the number and scope of these services of a social character, and it is now evident that the people of this Dominion are in favor of more and still larger and comprehensive services of this character.

This development is in line with modern trends and the new conception that all the people are responsible for the welfare of each individual citizen. We refer to this as a new conception, yet it is as old as civilization itself. Man is his brother's keeper and if when man fails to discharge that responsibility to his fellowmen, then the very civilization which protects him will collapse. So it is that the great majority of people will be found to welcome the introduction and enlargement of a national programme of social services.

There are, however, one or two danger spots in connection with such a programme which the Canadian people will be well advised to recognize at the outset. These services are designed to be helpful to us as individuals and as a nation, let us therefore beware that they do not actually prove harmful.

The first danger to avoid is, that in our enthusiasm and commendable desire to provide social services, and to establish them upon a generous scale, we do not overlook it, and embark upon programmes which may prove to be beyond the financial capacity of the Canadian people to maintain. Social services such as old age pensions, mother's allowances, unemployment insurance, free medical services, etc., will cost an enormous amount of money annually. Some of these services are already costing the Federal and Provincial Governments many millions of dollars, but present expenditures are undoubtedly small in comparison with the cost of proposals now being advanced.

Each and every one of these social services can be provided and made possible by just one method, and that is taxation. That is, the community as a whole must through the payment of taxes provide the money which will be distributed through one social service or another to the people who are in need of such service. If fifty million dollars are required for, say the payment of old age pensions throughout Canada, then taxes which will yield fifty million in revenue to the government must be imposed and paid by the people. There is no other way. This fact must be recognized, together with the further fact that there is a limit beyond which people cannot pay taxes, and any social or other service which depends upon government taxes beyond that limit will itself be in difficulty.

Once established, experience has proven that these social services grow very rapidly and that expenditures largely increase. This experience indicates a second danger spot. It is this: So long as individual man and woman are required to look out for themselves and plan for their future, they will, as a rule, work, exercise some degree of thrift, and save against sickness and old age. In a word, self preservation will be one of the guiding rules of their life. But once it becomes an accepted and established fact that people will be provided for whether they are at work or not, that the community will care for them and all their ills if and when sick, and that the community will support them throughout their old age and bury them when they die, then there is grave danger that the incentive which is now the great driving force in our human nature will become less keen, weaken and gradually die.

One of the tragedies of this depression period is the loss of incentive and ambition by many people, and a willingness on their part to accept relief payments in lieu of effort and work on their part. There is a tendency on the part of some when offered employment to balance the offered wage against the established scale of relief payments, and to decide whether the wage plus work is any better than relief minus work.

So, in the development of all social services the greatest care must be exercised that in our desire to benefit and help our fellow citizens we do not set up systems which in actual operation will undermine their characters and prove actually harmful to them as individuals, and destructive of the morale and stamina of the race.

Planning Tunnel Under Straits Of Gibraltar

Spanish Government Has Idea To Link Europe With Africa

The Spanish government is considering a vast public works program to help the jobless, which contemplates an outlay of about $185,800,000, the principal enterprise being the construction of a Gibraltar tunnel linking Europe with Africa.

The tunnel under the Straits of Gibraltar is the subject of a special inquiry which has been in progress some time. It is contemplated that the subterranean route would be about 20 miles long and would plunge under the Mediterranean to the depth of 1,500 feet. Construction would be by means of a new type compressed-air caisson, permitting the excavation of the sea bottom to a depth of 1,900 feet.

Congress Demands Respect

Persons Laughing At Chilean Parliament Will Be Arrested

Laughing at the Chilean parliament is now a punishable offence. Chile's deputies were annoyed at the increasing fun which was being made of congress and their debate. They especially objected to remarks made by members of the public in the gallery and in the precincts of the parliament. At the request of the chamber of deputies, therefore, the premier has given instructions to the police to arrest any person who is heard to "take in vain the name of the honorable congress."

Little Journeys In Science

COSMIC RAYS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Glass becomes negatively charged when rubbed with cat'skin, but positively charged when rubbed with silk. Also, a strip of celluloid becomes negatively charged when drawn between the fingers. In order to detect and measure the electric charges on any substance scientists have devised an instrument known as the electro-scope. A simple type of electro-scope consists of a bottle with a paraffin stopper, through which runs a piece of glass tubing. Passed through the glass tube is a piece of brass or copper wire from which are suspended two strips of gold leaf. A ball made of tinfoil is attached to the other end of the wire and is, of course, outside the bottle just above the paraffin stopper. Whenever the ball is given either a negative or positive charge the leaves fly apart in proportion to the amount of the charge. A rubber comb rubbed on a piece of glass and the leaves fly apart if the comb is placed on the tinfoil ball some of this charge is imparted to the electro-scope and the leaves fly apart. Since the charge is negative, another negative charge will cause the leaves to spread still farther apart, whereas a positive charge will cause the leaves to fall together before again flying apart. In this way the kinds of charges may be determined. When even the best of electroscopes are charged it is observed that the gold leaves slowly come together again. This means that some electrically charged particles from the atmosphere are neutralizing the charges on the leaves. Scientists set out to discover what was causing this discharge of an electro-scope and found that it was due to certain rays which came to the earth from outer space. They are called cosmic rays.

Many attempts have been made to stop the natural leak or discharge of an electro-scope. These attempts have always failed despite the use of the most perfect insulators and the protection of the electro-scope by lead shields, several feet in thickness. These experiments suggested that there exists an unusually penetrating radiation of feeble intensity.

Scientists have carried electroscopes to points near the two poles of the earth, and found that it was in sounding balloons to altitudes of over 20 miles, and have been carried to altitudes of 25,000 feet by airplanes in various localities and have been taken to high mountains as well as to depths as great as 1,000 feet in lakes. All experiments show that the rays come from above the earth and so they have been called cosmic rays. Outstanding among the various investigators in this work are two American scientists, Millikan and Compton.

Sensational Discovery On The North Shore Of Lake Athabasca

Three avalanches are busy freighting crews, diamond drill equipment and supplies to what is hailed as a sensational new gold strike at Beaver Lodge, on the north shore of Lake Athabasca.

Already there are more than 200 men at the camp, hastily constructed, and more stakers are on their way. Ten dog teams recently left Fort Chipewyan for the scene of the discovery. All reports say that Beaver Lodge is the greatest gold discovery in Canada in many years.

Scientists have found "regularators" of animal growth. Tests on salamanders give a clue as to why cars do not grow as big as hands.

Viking Guards Did Not Allow Women In Garrison

A 1000-year-old Viking stronghold never visited by women is the discovery of Dr. Hoiger Arthman, who has been excavating at Sweden's ancient capital, Birka. That the Viking guards forbade women to enter this garrison is inferred because no single scrap of a woman's ornaments or apparel has been found in the ruins. On the other hand, Dr. Arthman has unearthed remains of the men's arrowheads and many knives and animal bones left from the meals of the guardsmen.

Commons To Devote Time To Study Of New Reform Measures

Ottawa.—With only one more private members' day scheduled, the House of Commons will settle down to devote practically full time to government business, with considerable volume before it. More government legislation will probably be introduced.

Two bills are on the order paper in the name of the prime minister for introduction at the first opportunity, one establishing an eight-hour day and 48-hour week in industry, and the other legislating for a statutory day of rest in seven. Both arise from conventions adopted by the international labor organization of the League of Nations, ratified by the House of Commons a week ago.

Introduction of these bills will leave a large volume of the government's reform program before the House. Already consideration has been given to unemployment insurance legislation, amendments to the Canadian Farm Loan Act designed to facilitate farm credits, and amendments to the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act. These are now in committee stage.

Committees will probably get down to work within a few days; particularly those which will study ways of amending the British North America Act, fisheries problems, a national housing scheme and bills referred to the banking and commerce committee.

Abolition of private members' days so early in the session gave rise to fresh election rumors and in some quarters the idea of an election in late April was revived.

Flyers Finish Race

New Guinea Armies Rather Late In Reaching Melbourne

Melbourne, Australia.—Just 116 days after they took off from Mildenhall in the England-to-Melbourne air derby, G. E. Hensworth and R. Parer, New Guinea armies, roared across the finish line here, Feb. 18. Their belated arrival, nearly one-third of a year after the winners, was unheralded and unheeded.

The flyers took satisfaction, however, in the reflection that they had bettered one record—they had set themselves. "We're a bit late," observed Parer, "but we've beaten our previous record by four months."

Labor Effort To Have British Commons Censured Meets With Defeat

London.—A determined labor effort to have the House of Commons censure Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's government for its unemployment relief policies went down to defeat after a lengthy and sometimes bitter debate.

The vote, coming after charges and counter-charges had been hurled back and forth as the prime minister fought back stoutly at his adversaries, was 374 to 68.

Mr. MacDonald, striking out in reply to his critics in the Labor and Liberal opposition ranks, charged the Labor party with "muzzling political capital of the unemployed."

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, wound up the debate by declaring the government has increased trade and would continue to do so by its own methods.

"The increase in our exports is remarkable," he told the house. "There is no country in the world, unless it be Japan, which shows a similar increase."

Mr. MacDonald, first one to defend the government against a censure from

Establishes Farm School

Forty English Children To Be Sent To School On Vancouver Island

Montreal. Forty English children, aged seven to nine, will come to Canada in May to form the nucleus of the Fairbridge farm school on Vancouver Island. Major M. F. Trew stated here.

Major Trew will be the headmaster of the new school which is sponsored by the Child Immigration Society of Great Britain to train English boys and girls to enter farm life in Canada. He passed through Montreal en route back to England from British Columbia.

The society, he said, had bought 1,000 acres of land on Vancouver Island and building would commence shortly. Through private subscription and co-operation of the British government the children will be trained on the largest farm-school of its kind ever attempted in Canada. It will be modeled after the Fairbridge farm school of Australia. Major Trew estimated when the school is in full operation 400 boys and girls will be in residence. They will be taken from English institutions and chosen by the London committee of the society.

At the age of 16 they will be sent to farms in western Canada.

Italo-Ethiopian Trouble

Peaceful Settlement Of Border Dispute Is Expected

Rome.—Peaceful settlement of the turbulent Italo-Ethiopian border dispute in East Africa was believed by official circles in Rome to be in the offing. According to the Havas News Agency, an unconfirmed report which circulated in Rome went so far as to say that a partial accord had been reached at Addis Ababa, as a result of which Italian and Ethiopian forces had evacuated the disputed zone in the vicinity of Ughal, near the border between Italian Somaliland and Ethiopia.

The invitation was extended to Mr. Bradshaw on the recommendation of representatives of Vancouver bondholders, who had turned down Mayor McGeer's proposals for a 50 per cent suspension of interest payments on the city's bonded debt.

For Churchill Constituency

Hon. T. A. Crerar Is Nominated As Liberal Candidate

The Pas, Man.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, former federal cabinet minister, was nominated Liberal candidate for Churchill constituency in the forthcoming federal elections.

Nomination of Mr. Crerar came after a ballot with Dr. Daniel Baldwin, Benito, Man. Both Mr. Crerar and Dr. Baldwin spoke briefly before the vote was taken.

Mr. Crerar's first federal cabinet post was under Sir Robert Borden, prime minister of the Union government during the war-time years. He was made minister of agriculture in the administration in 1917.

He led the Progressive party a few years later, but in 1925 retired from politics.

To the cabinet shuffle of 1929 when Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King headed the Liberal administration, Mr. Crerar was summoned from private life and took the portfolio of railways.

Defeated in Brandon constituency in the general elections of 1930, Mr. Crerar retired again to private life.

Withdrawal Of Relief Would Cause Trouble In Canada, Says Mayor McGeer

Vancouver.—Withdrawal of relief allowances by the Dominion government would lead to revolution in Canada, Mayor G. G. McGeer declared during a discussion of means to repair storm damage in Stanley park, Vancouver.

Proposals are that the work be done by those on relief lists. Ald. W. W. Smith drew attention to the fact that the present relief agreement between British Columbia and the Dominion terminates March 31.

"And there is no certainty that the government will continue relief after that date," he added.

"If it doesn't, then there will be a revolution in Canada," said Mayor McGeer.

Honeymoon Tour

Prince George's Bride Has Slight Accident On Arrival At San Juan

San Juan, Puerto Rico.—The Duke and Duchess of Kent arrived at San Juan's airport from Port of Spain, Trinidad, in their honeymoon tour of the West Indies. A slight accident to the duchess marred the arrival.

While the British cruiser Dragon, anchored a mile away, boomed a salute of 21 guns and flag-docked crafts in the harbor whistled their welcomes, the royal newlyweds stepped down to be greeted by Governor Blanton Winship. It was the first time they had touched United States territory in their tour.

Prince George's bride, the former Princess Marina of Greece, tilted her ankle while stepping on a float at the airport from the amphibian plane but was not badly hurt.

Speed Reform Program

Ottawa. Desire of the government to speed its reform program through parliament was seen in notice of motion by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett that he would ask the House of Commons to approve right of way for government business every Monday from February 18 to the end of the session. Monday ordinarily is private members' day.

CANADA'S FIRST SILVER DOLLAR

Here is a picture of the reverse side of Canada's first silver dollar, which will be ready for circulation on May 8, the twenty-fifth anniversary of the accession of King George. The design is a canoe laden with pelts, paddled by an Indian and a "voyageur," passing through a rocky inlet on which are two jack-pines. The word "Canada" is set above with northern lights, and below, the word "dollar" appears with the year "1935". The obverse side of the dollar will carry a crowned effigy of His Majesty, with the inscription, "Georgius V Rex Imperator, Anno Regni XXV". The design was executed by Emanuel Hahn, R.C.A.

Must Ease Tax Burden

W. Sanford Evans Sees Taxpayers Becoming Bankrupt

Winnipeg.—Deconcentration of government in Canada had far exceeded the intentions of the fathers of confederation, declared W. Sanford Evans, Conservative leader, during debate on the throne speech in the Manitoba legislature.

Multiplicity of taxes was making taxpayers bankrupt, said Mr. Evans. The man in danger of losing his home for inability to pay the tax was still paying a wage tax, he said. He urged some steps by the government to ease the burden of taxation on the lower paid wage earners.

Mr. Evans spoke after W. J. Westwood (Lab. Prog. Reform) and J. L. Christie (Lib. Prog. Reform) respectively had moved and seconded the adoption of the address. The debate was adjourned by S. J. Farmer, newly-named Independent Labor party leader.

Sees Japanese Menace

California Representative Says Japan Army Reserves Are On Pacific Coast

Washington. Representative John Dockweiler, California Democrat, told the house of representatives military committee that 25,000 trained Japanese army reserves in the Pacific coast state stood ready to take up arms. Packed into Los Angeles harbor, he added, were 150 Japanese fishing boats with a cruising range of thousands of miles. "At least they appear to be fishing boats," he said significantly. The chairman stopped him with word that such testimony should be given in secret session. But Dockweiler replied he intended to make the same assertions on the house floor.

Demand For Percheros

Calgary. The great demand for purchased Percheron horses in Alberta, which has existed for some time, has lately broken all records in the history of the Percheron Club, according to Hardy E. Salter, secretary of the club. Farmers from all parts of the province have been buying Percherons at prices $150 to $200 higher than last year.

National Thank-Offering On The Occasion Of King's Silver Jubilee

Desire For Reconciliation

Thomas Says Real Peace Desired Between Britain And Free State

London.—J. H. Thomas, Dominion secretary, expressed a "sincere and genuine desire for reconciliation and real peace" between Great Britain and the Irish Free State. At the same time he said: "The two questions, sanctity of agreements and membership in the British commonwealth of nations, are and always must be fundamental to any settlement of the Irish difficulty."

Addressing the Constitutional club, Thomas said he had no intention of going into the political differences of the past. An overwhelming majority of the British people, he believed, sincerely desired reconciliation and real peace.

Geographically the Free State was so situated that Britain was the market upon which it had to depend, he said.

The question of whether or not the Free State desired to remain in the empire only tended to disturb existing relations between the two countries, said the Dominion secretary. If Ireland made clear she desired to remain in the empire and to play her part in it, "then how happy we would all be in this year." The king's jubilee celebrations take place in May.

Imperial Press Conference

Reception Tendered By Former Premier Of South Rhodesia

Bulawayo, South Africa.—Delegates to the imperial conference arrived in Bulawayo from Kimberley, Sir Herbert Stanley, governor of Southern Rhodesia, accompanied by Lady Stanley, made a special trip from Salisbury, the capital to greet them.

They met the governor and other officials at a reception tendered by H. H. Moffat, former premier of Southern Rhodesia, and a nephew of David Livingstone, the noted explorer. The delegates were entertained at a banquet at night.

Ease Economic War

Irish Free State Makes Representations To Britain

Dublin. A step in the direction of easing the economic "war" between the United Kingdom and the Irish Free State was revealed when President Eamon de Valera announced in the daily that representations had been made to Britain.

He referred solely to economic matters, saying the British government had been acquainted with the Irish belief that in view of the recent coal-and-cattle commercial exchange, there was a good cause for further negotiations.

Mass Buying Commission Reveals Distressing Facts As To Wage Conditions

Ottawa.—Compilation of a report, which is expected to be voluminous, both in discussion of evidence and recommendations, occupied members of the royal commission on mass buying. Some time must elapse before the report is ready.

"We are only at the first section," declared Chairman W. W. Kennedy.

Whether the House of Commons will receive the report through Hon. H. B. Hanson, minister of trade and commerce, in its completed form or by sections is engaging the commission's attention. It is not unlikely that to facilitate the government's program for the amelioration of certain ill-effects of the practice will be adopted. The first section is understood to deal with labor.

In this connection evidence adduced before both the parliamentary committee and the royal commission has been overwhelming in its disclosure of distressing conditions prevailing in certain trades, particularly those in which women workers predominated.

It is anticipated the commission will urge closer check on these industries employing women to ensure proper observance of the minimum wage laws and recommend uniform-

The Prince of Wales has called a meeting at St. James' Palace for March 1, at which he will submit a scheme for a national thank-offering on the occasion of the king's silver jubilee. Invitations have been issued to the lord lieutenants of the counties, the lord mayors and mayors of England and the lord provosts and provosts of Scotland.

Details of the scheme are being kept a close secret and will be revealed only when His Royal Highness addresses his guests. It will be one of his first engagements on returning from his sports holiday in the Australian Empire.

Meanwhile preparations for the jubilee celebrations are proceeding apace through the country. The king's desire for economy and simplicity in the observances finds expression in the balls to be held at Buckingham Palace on May 14 and June 23. These intentionally are not officially described as state balls but will have the character of court balls, which are less costly and less formal.

State dinners, however, will be held at Buckingham Palace on May 9 and May 20. Next to these functions probably the most representative gathering of the empire as a whole will assemble on May 22 for a reception and ball by the lord mayor at the Guildhall. On such occasions the corporation invariably turns a blind eye to the question of economy. Its entertainments cost the ratepayers nothing, being paid from the corporation's immense property revenues.

The presence of the king and queen will make the occasion historic. No record exists of the sovereign and his consort attending a ball at the Guildhall in person.

Dangerous Railway Crossings

Saskatchewan Heads The List In Highway Diversions

Ottawa.—Progress made in rubbing out dangerous railway crossings was given in the House of Commons in a return read into the records by Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways. Since 1920, 460 highway diversions have been made with help of contributions from the railway grade crossings fund. Highway crossings closed totalled 572.

During the five years, 94 overhead crossings, 107 crossing sidings, 25 wigway signals, 201 bell and wigway signals and 39 electric bells were built.

Saskatchewan headed the list in highway diversions, a total of 212. Quebec got 42 of the overhead highways. Ontario 37, British Columbia eight, Saskatchewan three, Manitoba two and Alberta one. Quebec also got most of the crossing sidings, 55; Ontario 42, Saskatchewan four, Manitoba three, Alberta two and Nova Scotia one.

Also, the commission contemplates recommending establishment of minimum wage laws for male workers, coupling this with maximum working hours.

On mass buying the commission is confronted with a difficult situation. It is understood some commissioners are not entirely convinced mass buying itself is an evil.

The report it is understood will be critical of labor policies of many chambers of commerce, declaring there to have been characterized by close control in the matter of wage costs but by lack of sympathetic attention in the application of these wage policies to the condition of the workers involved. The excuse that such direction could safely be entrusted to the local management had been shown to be inadequate by conditions revealed to the commission.

The chain-store management ought to have recognized from the start that changes in such a system were inevitable, the report is understood to declare. The fact no steps were taken to change these circumstances is considered a dereliction of duty on the part of executives.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

HAD a writer of detective stories invented a chain of circumstances such as led to Hauptmann's conviction, many would have declared such a remarkable piecing-together of the evidence presented by the State in the famous kidnapping trial as impossible. One incident which stands out above all others was tracing the wood of the ladder, which necessitated finding the mill which produced the wood and the yard which sold it. Of 40,000 possible sources of supply, the mill and the yard were found, and the missing board from Hauptmann's attic was a damning piece of circumstantial evidence. Here is a case where "truth is stranger than fiction," and a demonstration of clever detective work by Arthur Koehler, wood technologist of the United States Forestry Service.

THE fine display of handicraft here this week impressed one with the fact that while some spend considerable time in wasteful pursuits, others use their leisure time in making useful and beautiful things. The many articles manufactured in Alberta homes shown in this exhibit were truly an inspiration which must have aroused mixed thoughts in the minds of the many who made time to visit the exhibit. Work of this nature helps to produce useful and contented people, who take justifiable pride in their achievements.

WHY THEY OPPOSE IT

According to the Canada Year Book about eighty-six per cent of the net value of production in Alberta comes from agriculture and mining. In other words, that percentage of the value of everything Albertans produce in a year is produced by farmers and coal miners.

The amount of return which these two classes of producers receive for their products is not determined by the sale of those products within the province. A market outside of Alberta determines what the farmers and miners get for their labors, and what they do get regulates the quantity of goods not produced in the province which the miners and farmers have a chance to consume. That is a simple statement of fact that requires no elaboration.

Farmers in Alberta are poor, therefore, because a market which is outside their own province does not give them a proper return for their labor. Miners are poor because the market for their product is too limited, due to competition from other fields. Now Mr. Aberhart is going to cure the poverty of the miners and farmers by giving them a social dividend, or buying power, of twenty-five dollars a month. Of course buying power, represents something. That something is what we produce in Alberta, or its equivalent in goods imported. Therefore, if we are going to give twenty-five dollars a month to farmers and miners, eighty-six per cent of it must be collected from farmers and miners. And if we give twenty-five dollars a month to school teachers and lawyers and the butcher, the baker and candlestick maker, eighty-six per cent of that will come from the farmers and miners, too. There isn't any other place from which it can come.

Alberta farmers and miners suffer from a maldistribution of Canada's produced wealth. That maldistribution can be remedied by the right kind of national action. Progress toward that end will be set back many years if the people of any one province are foolish enough to experiment with hair-brained schemes that do not take the fundamental facts of the economic system into consideration. And, particularly is that so in the Province of Alberta where we sell outside the great bulk of what we produce, and buy outside the province very much of what we consume.

There is a real reason why Major Douglas and his Canadian advisers and supporters have turned thumbs-down on the Aberhart proposal. They know that its trial and certain failure will damn the Douglas system in the minds of Canadians for all time to come. The best friends of the Douglas System are therefore quite naturally the strongest opponents of the Aberhart scheme—Alberta Labor News.

VERY POINTED

In the High River Times, of which Charles Clark is the editor-proprietor, is published a column of "Pithy Paragraphs" written by his brother, Col Hugh Clark. Here are a few from last week's issue of The Times:

Men and women with shady pasts and present were willing to appear as witnesses at Flemington, in spite of the gruelingly that respectable witnesses received. As the defence funds were meagre, we can attribute their willingness only to morose impulse to get into the spotlight if only for one brief, inglorious moment.

Henri Bourassa, M.P., says he never listens to radio. Just takes any old kind of tooth-paste the druggist hands him.

Several Labor leaders have given interviews against the unemployment insurance bill but not one of them discloses the real reason for his opposition, which is that it increases the difficulty of calling strikes.

It would serve China right if we withdraw our missionaries, says a columnist. And what would the pirates do then, poor things?

Reilly, chief of defence at Flemington, said he could get fifty alien witnesses if the state would give them protection. The protection they would need most is protection against prosecution for perjury.

The persons most in need of protection are the dead Violet Sharpe and Isadore Fisch.

The party that goes to the country with a solution of the railway problem is one party that is sure to be defeated. And well the three parties know it.

CORRECTION

Gossip was responsible for a report of a death being reported in last week's Journal which never happened. At the time of going to press the news came into the office from supposedly a reliable source, and in the rush was published without verification, while the innocent source of the gossip knew nothing of it. The Journal regrets spreading a false report, for it is embarrassing to all concerned and may do harm or create mischief.

After the concert the pupils spent the balance of the evening in dancing.

Key Rink Defeats Creeggan To Win Pontiac Cup

Keen competition was witnessed at the bonspiel which opened at the local arena on Wednesday, Feb. 13, when thirteen rinks competed for the Pontiac and Studebaker trophies. Coleman teams had a disastrous day, only one rink being left in the competitions for the second day of play.

Creeggan's rink were the big winners, gaining a bracket in both finals. Key of Bellevue who entered his club rink, which contained two green men, was the surprise of the bonspiel, defeating favorites in the Pontiac event and opposing Creeggan in the final. The final was played on Friday evening, the Key rink playing as if inspired, while Creeggan's rink went into a slump and proved easy victims. The winners received fishing baskets while the runners-up received vases. The personnel of the rinks were: Key (skip) Cruitt, Lund, Lubasck. F. G. Creeggan (skip) A. Destable, W. Antel, A. Balloch.

The Studebaker event will see Congdon oppose Creeggan. This game will be played at the end of this week. The personnel of the Congdon rink is Congdon (skip), Rinaldi, Zak.

SUN LIFE CO. HAS FINE REPORT

The annual financial statements of life assurance companies are among the best barometers of general business experience on this continent. Hence, during the past five years when the decline in individual incomes resulted in the purchase of fewer and smaller life insurance policies, the statements in question faithfully reflected that fact.

A striking fact mentioned by President Wood, in his address, is that of the $88,000,000 which the Sun Life Company paid out to policyholders last year, 85% was in amounts of less than $5,000, with an average of less than $2,000. That fact vividly indicates the invaluable place life insurance holds as a source of first aid to those of modest circumstances. It is, indeed, a rather significant evidence that some of the problems with which governments today are grappling, growing out of concern for those in humble station, have long since been anticipated and provided for on a sound scientific basis by our insurance companies.

The general character of the report is not only satisfactory to the policyholders of the Company but encouraging to the business community at large.

THE TENDERFOOT

By
GEORGE B. RODNEY
Author of "The Coronado Trail",
"The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is striking himself into ruin."

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now returns to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore.

Dustin unexpectedly comes along while Stone and Edith are riding fence, and seeing them, stops and talks to Edith. He mentions their dispute could be settled by marrying him, and Edith refuses his proposal with remarks that make Dustin furious. He insults Stone, who promptly throws him into a pool of water.

Stone tells Carr, his foreman, about his meeting with Dustin. Stone and Carr go to Seco to send a telegram to Gerald Keene. While at Seco an attempt is made to kill Stone, who proves more than a match for his enemies.

Dustin learns that Gerald Keene has been sent for, and also that Duro Stone has seen the Broken Spur men rustling Carr's cattle. He sets out with Dad Kane to learn the location of his gold discovery. Dad Kane shows Dustin the mine.

They go back to camp, and Dustin shoots Kane. He fixes the shooting on Payroll Gregg, a drug addict, who, stupefied by the narcotic he had taken, did not know whether he was guilty or not. They bury Kane and then return to the Broken Spur ranch.

Meanwhile at the Hour Glass, Carr, Stone and Carr speculate as to the meaning of entries in the notebook belonging to Dane Kane that Stone had found. Stone thinks of a possible solution, and, accompanied by Edith Carr, rides out to Red Water to tell out his theory, which proves correct, and they find the rich gold deposit mentioned in the prospector's notebook. As they return to the ranch, they meet Dustin leaving his house, and he deliberately tries to ride down Stone.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XII.

Duro Stone summed up affairs fairly accurately as he headed for Seco. That summary included Joe Carr, Frank Carr, the Hour-glass, Dustin, Kane (whom he knew not) and Edith! He grinned a little as he realized that she was not to be judged by any ordinary standards. Yet...

"The dirty hound... He wants to marry her!"

That appealed to his sense of humor and he chuckled.

"To be sensible... If I can... How can I blame another man for wanting to do what I want to do myself? Dog-gone it! It makes me tired. I've spread my rope from Canada to Mexico and now I've come to the end of the trail..."

Suddenly he knew that, if Edith Carr was at the end of that trail to welcome him, he wanted no other trail.

"All the same that man Dustin's a dirty hound," he muttered. "Now to try to find out what I want... Here's Seco."

Seco was an ordinary cow-town with a courthouse in the middle of a square from which the rest of the town radiated. He parked in front of a small frame building that bore the sign:

SECO COUNCILOR

Evan Jameson, Editor and Prop.

"If any information is to be had it ought to be in a newspaper office," he muttered. "If he hasn't got an encyclopedia I don't know who will have one."

A slouching man rose from a half-reclining position across a desk and eyed him as he entered. Stone grinned affably and thrust out a hand.

"My name's Stone," he said pleasantly. "I work for Carr at the Hour-glass. Are you Mr. Jameson by any chance?"

"Not by chance, by design and for my sins I think," said Jameson with a sour grin. "What can I do for you?"

"Have you got an encyclopedia in the office and if so, will you let me consult it?"

"Over on the shelf yonder," said Jameson. "Help yourself."

He watched curiously as Stone took down volume after volume. When he replaced the last with a sigh of disappointment, Jameson became frankly curious.

"Can't you find it?" he asked.

"It's not in the book..." Stone perched on the desk and rolled a cigarette. "Maybe you can help me, Mr. Jameson. Have you lived long in this part of the country?"

Jameson went to the dusty window and pointed to the great bulk of Myrant Peak that thrust above the skyline.

"When I first came here," he said, "that peak was just a hole in the ground. It's grown up since then. I haven't. You say your name's Stone?"

Are you the man who slapped a drink of whisky in Carr's eyes in the Silver Dollar?"

"I reckon I did," said Stone, grinning. "Sometimes I'm mighty careless where I throw my heel-taps."

"It was you, too, who had the quarrel with Sam Dustin and who dumped him into Soda Springs, hey?"

Stone nodded. He wondered how and where Jameson had learned of that. Jameson enlightened him.

"My wife heard it... from a friend and she told me. I haven't said a word about it. I thought it best. Maybe I can help you about that item you want in the encyclopedia," said Jameson shortly.

"First of all... Do you know an old desert-rat named Kane?"

"Who?" Dad Kane? Oh, man Shammy-skin Kane? They call him that because he always wears a shirt made of chamois skin. He says he can use it with his mercury to try out his gold ore... when he finds it. Of course I know him."

"Is he straight?"

"Absolutely. That is, he's perfectly honest except in minor matters. He's queer, though. Tell me what these questions mean."

Stone thrust a hand deep into his coat-pocket and kept it there while he studied Jameson. He liked what he saw and his face broke into a pleasant smile.

"I've been on the Hour-glass payroll for four months now," he said irrelevantly.

"It's a good outfit," said Jameson. "I'm sorry they've had so much hard luck. Now take Joe Carr. He's a fine old fellow but he has dropped behind in the race for money. He will never catch up. He just doesn't know what it's all about. He's got a good outfit, too, but a good body can't help if the head is gone. Of course he's got a good man in Frank Carr. They don't make many men like Carr."

"Edith... What about her?"

Jameson's grim face instantly lit with a light that there was no mistaking. Even the silence answered Stone's half-formed question.

"Yeah," said Jameson quietly.

"Carr told me that, while Edith was out riding with me, that man Dustin came over to the Hour-glass. He saw old man Carr and told him that he wanted to marry Edith..."

Even Jameson, the lanky editor of the moribund paper that certainly could not support him, threw himself across his desk and grabbed at Stone's arm.

"Tell me that again," he said earnestly. "See if I'm hearing right!"

Stone told him curtly and every word sank in. Jameson nodded once or twice and gestured himself on the edge of the desk.

"You listen to me," he said quietly. "You've been some months at the Hour-glass. You must know how things are out there..."

"I thought so. I've heard a lot of you... From... Oh, from some people and what I've heard I like... Wait..."

"I've heard a lot of you... From... Oh, from some people and what I've heard I like... Wait..."

"I'm a married man, Stone. I've got the finest wife in the world and we've got two kids. One's a boy named for me. The other's a girl, Mabel; named for her mother. Some day when you have kids of your own, you'll understand what I'm trying to tell you..."

Last year the boy was taken mighty sick while I was away. Edith Carr only knew us fairly well but she stepped in from time to time to see if she could help Mabel. I was over at Wilton longer than I expected and I couldn't get back. The third day Sun Young came in from Seco and told me the boy was down with a bad case of diphtheria... You may guess what that means in a place like Seco. Our only doctor then was a horse-doctor and he was generally full. I got back as soon as I could make it... It had been a cold night and Edith Carr, hearin' how sick the boy was, spent it with Mabel. They spent that night tryin' to cook the poison out of him... You know how it is I reckon. Know anything about diphtheria?"

Stone shook his head.

"It stops up all the tubes and chokes the person to death. You've got to be right on the job... Mabel was played out... She was sick, too... The boy was taken sick in the night... Mabel... Well, she says frankly that she lost her nerve and didn't know what to do..."

She stood there watchin' the boy choke to death before her eyes... That's when Edith Carr came in! She saw what was takin' place...

She saw Mabel couldn't help herself... She pushed Mabel out of the room, pulled the rubber tube off a hot-water bottle and stuck it down the kid's throat... Then... By God, Stone... She sucked it clear! Do you get that? She gave him back his life... Any need to ask what we think of Edith Carr?

There was no need. After one brief glance at Jameson, Stone knew that he could "go the limit."

"I'll tell you why I want to find old Man Kane," he said.

He perched on the desk and told Jameson of his first row with Dustin. He told him of the fight with Carr and Gray in the hills above the ranch. He told how he found old Kane's lost notebook and of the trip that he took with Edith. Finally he laid on the desk the pieces of rock from the mine.

"I can get Buxton right here in town to assay 'em," said Jameson. "He'll not talk if I tell him not to... Go on..."

"Well... we were riding home when Dustin, who had been at the Hour-glass, came peltin' down the trail and tried to ride me down in the gulpe de caballo. His horse must have slipped or something for Dustin was upset. (Jameson's eyes gleamed at that.) While he was lyin' there unconscious, I went through his pockets. I found a note from Joe Carr to Peggam of the Seco bank for eleven thousand dollars. Peggam had sold it to Dustin. Then, when I got to the Hour-glass, Carr told me that Dustin had come there to tell Carr that he wanted to marry Edith..."

"Well...? Jameson's voice took a cold edge. "Go on..."

"Then I took the car and came here..."

"To look for something in an encyclopedia," said Jameson.

Stone grinned. "You stick to the point, don't you? Look here..."

And he laid on the littered table an envelope and the cigarette that he had taken from Dustin's pocket. He emptied the envelope on the desk and fingered the contents—three or four stubs of burned cigarettes and a little pile of brown dust. Then he picked up the whole cigarette that he had taken from Dustin...

"These are not tobacco," he said. "I found the stubs in the camp where Kane must have gone with Dustin..."

... Or else Dustin was there alone. I don't know. I want to find Kane. This stuff may be marabhuana..."

I don't know it. I know it is not tobacco and I'm sure. Do you know it? I was lookin' for marabhuana in the book."

Jameson crumbled some of the stuff between thumb and forefinger; made a face and spat suddenly.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE SWEETEST SMILE

The sweetest smile I ever saw Was on a weary face. No look of doubt was there to faw The shining spirit's grace.

The eyes were dim, the lips were pale, But yet a light glowed through That shone a soul which would not quail. Whatever life might do.

That smile had not so much of mirth Or gladness as of peace. As though from all the cares of Earth One heart had found release.

And tenderness and truth were there. No touch of worldly guile Upon a face not young or fair, Drowned beauty with that smile.

The sweetest smile I ever knew Was on a tear-stained face. It came like sunlight breaking through A lonely, shadowed glaze.

Little Helps For This Week

"To be spiritually minded is life and peace." Romans 8:6.

Stilled now be every anxious care; See God's great goodness everywhere; Leave all to Him in perfect rest: He will do all things for the best.

We should all endeavor for a calmer spirit, that we may the better serve God in praying to Him and praising Him; and serve one another in love, that we may be fitted to do and receive good; that we may make our passage to heaven more easy and cheerful. So much as we are quiet and cheerful on good ground, so much we live and are, as it were, in heaven.

Possess yourself as much as you possibly can in peace; not by any effort, but by letting all things fall to the ground which trouble or excite you. This is no work, but just settling down a fluid to settle that has become turbid through agitation.

States Gordon Walker, M.L.A. in Public Meeting at Nanton

Speaking to a Nanton audience last week, Gordon Walker, M.L.A., stated that "whereas Major Douglas was most emphatic that social credit could not be put in effect in Alberta as a province, but was only workable when put in effect over a country that had complete control of its monetary system, therefore to work it must be put in effect all over the Dominion. He said that even if it were possible to issue social credit money, it would mean that the people would have to raise $120,000,000, making all told $132,000,000. This would mean that there would be too much purchasing power and would knock values out of balance. At the same meeting, Ex-Premier Brownlee stated that, after reading extensively from works of Major Douglas, in which that authority on finance stated most emphatically that the Douglas system of Social Credit could not operate successfully, he was satisfied Mr. Aberhart's system had two fallacies. The first was that social credit money, not being legal tender, no person could be compelled to take it in payment of a debt for goods. The second was that it was too cumbersome and would slow down the doing of business to such an extent that the whole monetary system would be thrown into disruption, and that any government that put such a policy in force could not stay in power more than a few weeks.

Flowers for any occasion may be ordered through Frank H. Graham, at the post office. Prompt service assured at all times, by telephoning 81W.
